State and Local Health Departments Clear Hot Tub for Public Use

BISMARCK, N.D. – The hot tub at the Days Inn of Casselton is open for public use. The hot tub was closed while being thoroughly sanitized with technologies new to the facility. Recent tests conducted by the North Dakota Department of Health (NDDoH) and Fargo Cass Public Health (FCPH) have not indicated any bacterial problems. The Days Inn will continue to work with FCPH and the NDDoH to test the hot tub to help ensure its safety.

Hotel management has been cooperative throughout the investigation and remediation process. Regular testing and sanitizing is essential to the safe operation of the hot tub. To increase the standard of safety, management has implemented additional sanitizing technologies to thoroughly sanitize the hot tub and related plumbing.

For further information contact Michelle Dethloff, North Dakota Department of Health, at 701.328.2378.
